Creative Crafts for Kids [1]

[2]

When it is too cold to play and you're stuck inside, you might get a little bit of cabin fever. One sure cure for this dreaded, boring condition is to make something fun. The Children's Department has hundreds of books filled with ideas and instructions to help you create colorful crafts.

One great example is Creative Crafts for Kids [3] published by Reader's Digest Children's Books. Here you will find instructions for making fantastic greeting cards, balloon monsters, floral picture frames, and much more. This book will help you get creative with paper, wire, paint, felt, glitter, and glue. Creative Crafts for Kids is right for children in 3rd grade and older, but the library has great craft books for all ages. We also have a wide selection of seasonal craft books to help you and your family celebrate the holidays. So don't suffer from cabin fever...come to the library to find a cure for a boring winter day.

Posted by Mary F. on December 14, 2011

Oh, the Thinks You Can Think [4]

Reviews Subjects:

Arts & Crafts [5]

Reviews Titles:

Creative crafts for kids [6]

Links
[1] https://mcpl.info/blogs/oh-thinks-you-can-think/creative-crafts-kids
[2] http://2.bp.blogspot.com/-7mDgm1z1CwT/ullyCso4I/AAAAAAAAEs/qU16izOMKA/s1600/creative%28crafts.jpg
[3] http://mcpl.monroe.lib.in.us/view.aspx?sbn=insert%20#%20%20here
[4] https://mcpl.info/childrensblog
[5] https://mcpl.info/category/reviews-subjects/arts-crafts
[6] https://mcpl.info/reviews-titles/1384