

Collections/Format

Find great stuff faster with More Search Options

With so much to choose from at the Library, it can sometimes seem overwhelming to find exactly what you're looking for quickly. Watch this video (linked from MCPL's Facebook page) to make your online Library catalog searches faster and more precise.

Posted by Ryan S. on March 10, 2014

Collections/Format

Homework Help

How-to & DIY

Online Resource

Reading

Technology

Information, Answers & Reviews

Adult & Teen Services News

Ryan S.'s blog

4 comes before 2 but after 8

Libraries can be an interesting place to find things. It's sometimes said that librarians think differently than other people. That of course isn't really true; our goal is to make things as easy to find as possible for as many people as possible. The end result however can be confusing.

Why? Because librarians think differently than other people. The use of numbers in movie titles is a good example. Let's look at the movie "2012," (Two Thousand Twelve)

You might have noticed that in the above example I spelled out the title in parentheses. There is a reason for this. Libraries, unlike your home computer, place titles with numbers on the shelf as if they were spelled out. Why do we do this? Read more

Posted by Keith C. on July 3, 2012

Collections/Format

DVD

Essays

Sights and Sounds

Information, Answers & Reviews

Keith C.'s blogLog in to post comments
